

HALLOWEEN STORY

Once upon a time, six best friends called themselves the MTA. MTA was the name of a group that they put together from the first capital letter of their names, which were Anastasija, Ana, Teodora, Tea, Mila and Marija.

One day the girls were sitting in their classroom, when they heard a door close. They didn't bother to care because there were other students in the school, although it was still a bit weird for them. The next day the teachers weren't at school for a strange reason, so the girls were alone in the whole school with just two janitors who were cleaning the school. To the girls, the janitors were a bit off that day, but they didn't care so they just left the school because there were no classes. Outside the school, Marija realized that her phone was missing and that she had accidentally forgotten her phone on her desk, so the girls went back to the school to get it. Before they entered the school, they saw one of the janitors looking at them creepily. So, they asked her what happened and why she was looking at them like that, the janitor just said that nothing happened and that she was looking at them like that just because they were so pretty, so the girls just continued walking towards their classroom. They went into the classroom and took Marija's phone. They were just about to leave the classroom when they realized that the door behind them had closed and someone had locked them in the classroom and they heard a voice screaming for help. At that moment the girls were starting to panic but someone threw the key from under the door and when they saw the key, they were just thinking that someone was just messing with them. So, they just unlocked the door and got out of the classroom but still wanted to see who was asking for help so they went to the classroom next to them, but it was empty. They were too afraid to search the rest of the classrooms by themselves so they called their classmate Luka to go and search the rest of the classrooms. When they went to enter the third classroom Luka went first because he wasn't scared. The classroom was empty, but when they turned around to leave the classroom, they saw what they thought was Luka but it was a replica of him and all behind them was covered in blood including the replica of their friend. They turned around to compare the two Lukas but the one that first entered the room with them was gone so there was just them left and a bloody replica of one of their best friends. They yelled and screamed as loud as they could hoping that someone would hear them. The bloody Luka took out a knife from behind his back and started chasing the poor girls. As they were running out of the classroom they turned around and saw that Luka was gone, so they just left the school traumatized.

The next day they come back to the school and told the teachers and the principal about what happened, but they didn't believe them. They tried their best to convince them but it just wasn't working so they just gave up and started heading back to their classroom when they realized that the classroom was empty and their classmates were gone, but the classroom wasn't exactly the same as the day before because there were two pictures of the two creepy janitors and a cross with blood was drawn on those pictures. What that meant was that the janitors were dead and that the girls were next, but they were just left alive a little bit longer. They arrived at school the next day and all of the students were dead except them. They saw the killer standing in front of the board with a knife in his hand and they heard him say that he would leave them to live a little bit longer but his brother would probably kill them. They ran away from the school terrified. After that, they moved to another place and separated from each other completely, but once they had seen the killer looking at them while smiling after that they didn't see him ever again. Everything was well, till midnight at the 31st October, when all six of them were found dead, and it was scientifically proven that all six of them had died in the same second. After their death, they got back in time and killed the person that was smiling at them at that exact moment. They headed back to their old school and saw the two janitors again smiling at them and asking them “Are you happy now?”
